

Planning Authority: Kerry County Council

Unique identity number: RPS KY040-21

Address: Church St, Castleisland

Description: Stone mill building, main element of interest comprised five bay four storey structure with half hipped roof with smaller stone structure attached to west

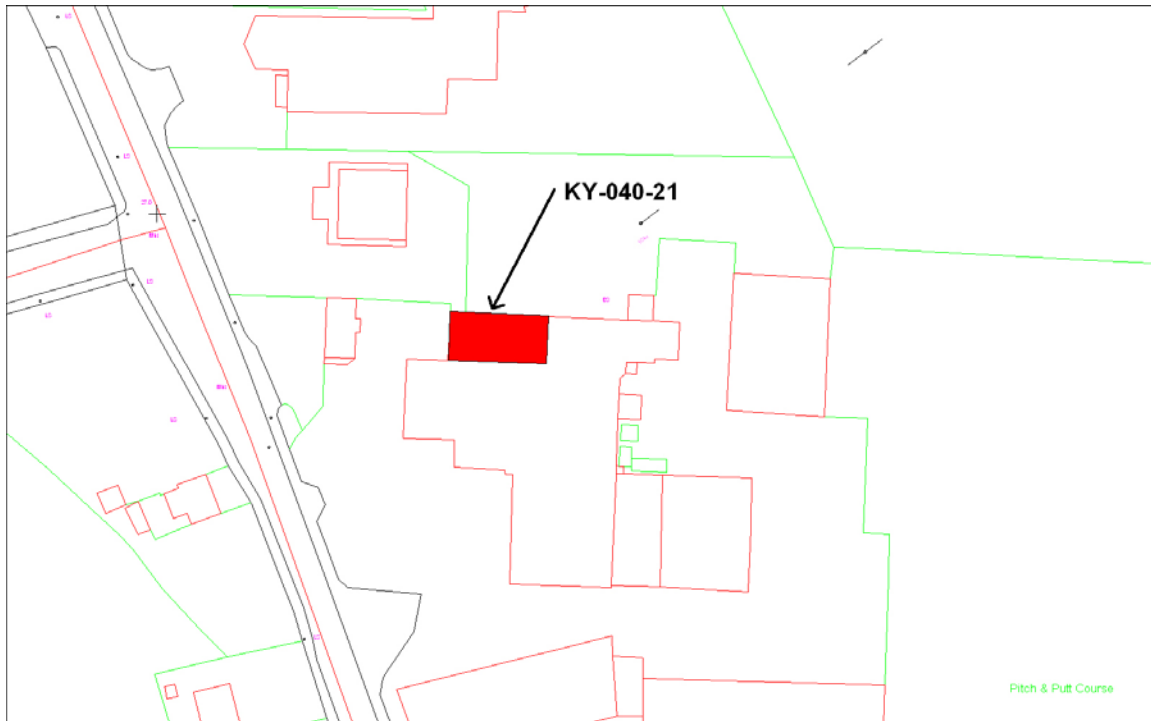

Ordnance Survey Map: 5662

National Grid co-ordinates: 100,265m,
109,442m

Special interest: Historical, social, technical

Location Map (not to scale)

Appraisal: In the past mills were among the most vital structures in the community. Rhyno Mill dates from 1846 and continues to be in use having been adapted to suit modern needs. The early mill buildings add character to the modernized site and form an imposing landmark in the locality and form an important part of the industrial heritage of the locality. The building is considered to have special historical, technical and social interest which warrants inclusion in the RPS.